EDUCATIONAL AIMS OF PROGRAMME

The rationale for the degree is to capture, within a focused core of law, the learning and skills outcomes of:

- the QAA Subject Benchmark Statement for law (2023) accessible here: https://www.qaa.ac.uk/docs/qaa/sbs/sbs-law-23.pdf?sfvrsn=c271a881_6
- the developing trends and best practice in the learning and teaching of Law; and the requirements of the 2020 Foundation Programme (Scottish Exempting Degree) Accreditation Guidelines issued by the Law Society of Scotland, outlined here: <https://www.lawscot.org.uk/media/370585/foundation-programme-guidelines-2020-final.pdf>

By the end of the degree, students will be equipped with the knowledge, skills, values and attitudes necessary to achieve the learning outcomes of the Foundation Programme.

The programme design reflects the QAA Subject Benchmark Statement for Law 2023. Beyond the core law curriculum, students are free to develop their interests through a range of options both law based and from broader academic disciplines.

The role of lawyers in society is changing – lawyers are increasingly expected to be pro-active in the prediction and prevention of unethical as well as unlawful behaviour across all areas of society. Thus, the delivery of the modules within the LLB (Hons) programme will embed the Sustainability Development Goals of the United Nation in particular SDG 16 – Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions. There is also a strong focus on equality running through the LLB curriculum as part of the core and optional classes, reflecting the importance of SDG 5 – Gender Equality – as well as SDG 10 – Reduced Inequalities. Alongside this, issues of Good Health and Wellbeing (SDG3) are addressed through the healthcare law and ethics offerings at SQF levels 9 and 10.

Given the growing internationalisation of all aspects of society, the delivery of the modules across the LLB (Hons) programme will set Scots, broader UK and EU law as appropriate in an international context.

The main educational aims of the programme are:

- to provide a fundamental knowledge and understanding of the purpose and sources of law and the main elements of public and private law in Scotland in the context of the UK, EU and wider international setting;
- to provide a Scottish Exempting Degree, which is accredited by the Law Society of Scotland, in the context of the degree fulfilling the Foundation Programme of the route to qualification as a Scottish solicitor;
- to prepare students for graduate employment in a wide range of contexts or for further study and a career where legal knowledge and skills will be applied;
- to develop in students the necessary subject specific, intellectual, personal and key skills and values to enable them to develop, consistently with the Sustainability Development Goals, as independent, autonomous, articulate, reflective and ethical individuals and so enhance graduate employability.
- to develop the skills required to evaluate, plan and implement research relevant to law and related issues.
- to provide students with the opportunity to broaden their international perspectives and inter cultural knowledge through the study of a foreign language and/or studying in a partner institution abroad.
